Dog cull tradition 'tragic': Activist

Ile-a-la-Crosse. Mayor of remote Sask. village says there are few options to deal with aggressive canines without permanent vet or bylaw enforcer

JACOB MORGAN
jacob.morgan@metronews.ca

Each spring as dogs enter mating season, some people in northern Saskatchewan turn to culling.

Duane Favel, mayor of the remote village of Ile-a-la-Crosse, says during this time of year untagged canines that litter the streets are in heat and aggressive.

"They start bunching up outside the schools," said Favel. "They become extremely dangerous."

It's been like this since Favel can remember. One explanation, he said, is northern society has changed and dogs are no longer necessary for transportation.

But without a permanent veterinarian to neuter animals or a bylaw enforcer to regulate pet owners, Favel said Ile-a-la-Crosse has few options.

"Sometimes we have to resort to culling, which is unfortunate because we certainly don't want to do that," said Favel.

He could not estimate how many dogs have been killed in the process.

A poster hung at the village office around three months ago, says administrator Diane McCallum, seeks pest control personnel who have firearm acquisition certificates.

"It took a while before we got anyone," said McCallum.

Even though most don't want to shoot dogs, tragedies are fresh in the minds of those who live in isolated places.

This season, two young girls were attacked and killed in rural Manitoba on separate occasions. In 2009, a six-year-old boy was mauled in Ile-a-la-Crosse.

Favel said he is consulting with residents on an action plan and there is a need for a holding facility for dogs to stay until claimed or brought to a shelter, which could be difficult to finance.

Louise Bowden-Leonard, a supporter of animal rights based in Nova Scotia, says the federal and provincial governments should step in to help find better contraceptive methods and solutions. She shared the pest control ad from Ile-a-la-Crosse on Twitter to raise awareness.

"It's really tragic that these things need to constantly happen in order for anyone to realize there's a problem," said Bowden-Leonard.

A spokesperson with the Ministry of Government Relations in Saskatchewan, who requested not to be named, said animal control is not the province's responsibility.

Senate scandal

Wallin has second thoughts about paying money back

Suspended senator Pamela Wallin says she regrets paying back money for expense claims that she still doesn't see as dubious.

Wallin told a Toronto radio station Thursday that the payback created a perception she was guilty of fudging her expenses.

Wallin, who was co-hosting a three-hour talk show, said she paid back some $38,000 despite her belief that many of the travel expenses in question were legitimate.

The former Conservative said she paid the money to end the distraction created by the Senate scandal, despite receiving advice not to pay it back.

Since then, she says, the payback has been used against her.

Wallin acknowledged she made mistakes in filing some of the expenses, but maintains that most of the claims she submitted were approved under Senate guidelines that she calls vague.

"I regret doing it," said Wallin. "I would pay back what I think I owed, but not the large sum of the charges that were rung up because of retroactively imposed new rules.

"I just think it's given some people an excuse to say, 'Oh, well, you must be guilty because you paid it back.'"

Wallin, along with fellow former Tories Patrick Brazeau and Mike Duffy, was suspended from the Senate in early November over the expense claims.

Liberal Mac Harb resigned from the Senate in August after paying back $231,000 for ineligible housing and travel expenses.

Harb and Brazeau were charged by the RCMP in February with fraud and breach of trust.

Duffy and Wallin have so far not faced any charges.

Water Security Agency monitoring spring rainfall

Annual flood watch. Precipitation could cause trouble for Saskatoon if persistent

MORGAN MODJESKI
morgan.modjeski@metronews.ca

Saskatchewan's Water Security Agency says ice jams on the Saskatchewan River system likely won't impact Saskatoon, but spring storms could pose problems.

On Wednesday Saskatoon came close to breaking a daily record for precipitation set in 1926, and while Environment Canada said it fell short by roughly a millimetre, Patrick Boyle, a spokesman with the Water Security Agency, said it's keeping a close eye on potential spring storms.

"Rainfall is one of the factors that we get concerned about during the spring runoff," Boyle told Metro.

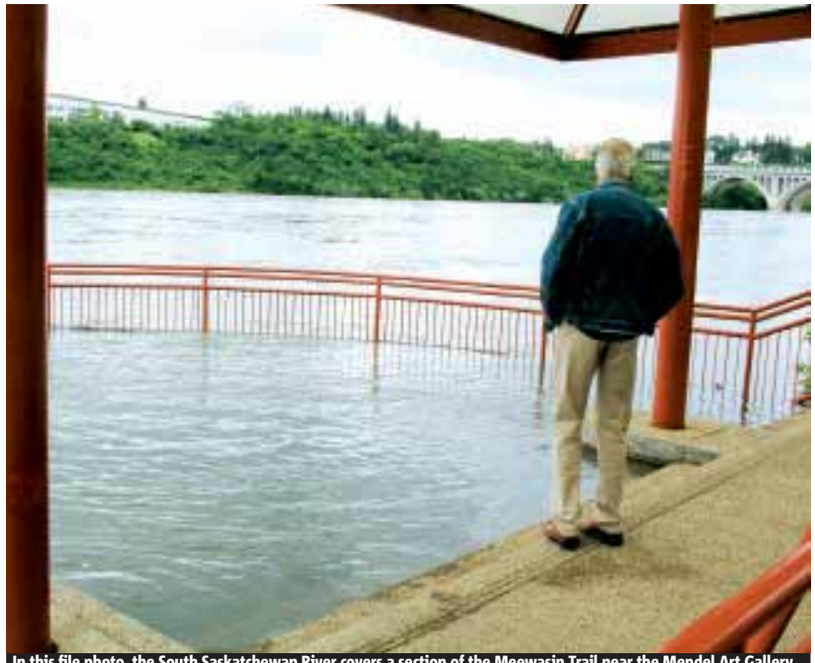
"Saskatoon is probably in the later stage of their spring runoff. But rainfall during spring runoff just adds to what is already happening, so that's something we look really closely at.

Of river levels in the South Saskatchewan River, Boyle said: "I don't think we're too concerned with that right now, but it depends on the weather. At the end of the day, we're still at the mercy of Mother Nature."

According to models from the North American Ensemble Forecast System, Saskatoon will remain wet for most of the next two weeks with potential rainfalls between 3 mm to 8 mm per 12-hour period, with levels expected to peak this weekend.

Natalie Hasell, a warning preparedness meteorologist with Environment Canada, explained rain will continue into next week and while daily levels are predicted to be relatively low overall, they can accumulate quite quickly.

"We're not really looking at very large or very steep precipitation rates, but it could add up," she said.



In this file photo, the South Saskatchewan River covers a section of the Meewasin Trail near the Mendel Art Gallery in Saskatoon, when river levels jumped in 2013 as a result of spring flooding in Alberta. MORGAN MODJESKI/METRO

5 Saskatchewan books to read

Spring is the time for new blooms and new books. Wes Funk, host of Lit Happens on Shaw TV, says many publishers release titles during this season as people look for "rejuvenation and want to ignite their spirit." Here are five recent works from Saskatchewan authors, all available at the McNally Robinson bookstore:

JACOB MORGAN/METRO

Wes Side Story by Wes Funk

Although autobiographical elements figure into Funk's earlier novels, Wes Side Story is his first memoir about coming of age in rural Saskatchewan.

"I didn't always fit in (with) small-town life," said Funk. "A lot of the other kids ... wanted to play hockey and they wanted to go hunting, whereas I wanted to watch rock videos and read books."

With references to comic books and '80s new-wave music, Wes Side Story will appeal to anyone who has ever felt like an outsider.

Just Pretending by Lisa Bird-Wilson

In her debut collection of short stories, Métis writer Lisa Bird-Wilson uses provocative prose to explore themes of abandonment, addiction and identity.

"The characters are often fragile, sometimes unlikeable, but ultimately can be … sympathized with," states a release from publisher Coteau Books.

Just Pretending is up for book of the year at the 2014 Saskatchewan Book Awards.

Growing Resistance by Emily Eaton

What could be more Saskatchewan than protesting farmers and fields of wheat?

University of Regina professor Emily Eaton's non-fiction book puts a modern spin on the importance of Prairie agriculture, showing how a coalition of producers opposed genetically modified organisms and the behemoth food corporation Monsanto.

Swedes' Ferry by Allan Safarik

Fans of gritty Westerns will love Allan Safarik's vivid imagination.

This work of historical fiction set around the turn of the 20th century along the Canada-U.S. border in the Prairies features a bank-robbing Mountie, a snooping Pinkerton detective and a railroad mogul with a soft spot for S&M.

WTF to OMG: The Frazzled Female's Guide to Creating a Life you Love by Jennifer Sparks

A self-help book written with pizzazz, WTF to OMG is geared toward the everyday woman.

Jennifer Sparks demonstrates how to achieve self-actualization with a relatable voice.

If you're looking to get some spring-cleaning done in your life, this book is for you.

‘Everyday Canadians’ favour bill, Tories say

Fair Elections Act.
Minister frames much-maligned bill as Ottawa elites versus average Joes

What’s a government to do when a litany of parliamentary watchdogs, academics, aboriginal leaders, editorialists and opposition politicians say your legislation stinks?

If you’re Stephen Harper’s Conservatives, you seize the opportunity to make the debate over the Fair Elections Act into a political wedge issue — average Canadians versus the Ottawa elites.

Pierre Poilievre, the minister of state for democratic reform, spelled this out Thursday in a luncheon speech in Ottawa, borrowing a favourite phrase from former Ontario Conservative premier Mike Harris — “common sense” — to draw a line between ordinary folks and the out-of-touch political class.

Protesters outside an Ottawa venue where Minister of State Pierre Poilievre spoke about the Fair Elections Act Thursday. ADRIAN WYLD /THE CANADIAN PRESS

“Away from the noise around political Ottawa, everyone understands that this is common sense,” Poilievre said.

“We’re just finishing two weeks away from Parliament. Out in our communities, it has been refreshing to be reminded of the massive gulf between those in the political bubble and everyday Canadians on the ground.”

For Poilievre, part of developing that us-versus-them frame on the debate has been to suggest there is only one real point of contention: the government’s plan to eliminate vouching.

But that has not been the only criticism of the bill. There have also been complaints about the limitations placed on the chief electoral officer’s ability to communicate publicly, and a campaign-soliciting loophole. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Robocall investigation turns up no evidence

A three-year investigation into allegations of fraudulent robocalls during the last federal election has found no evidence of intent to deceive voters, nor any evidence of an orchestrated scheme beyond Guelph, Ont.

A long-awaited report from commissioner of elections Yves Cote will come as vindication for the Conservative party, which has faced a cloud of suspicion for years over widespread reports of non-party supporters being directed to the wrong polling stations in the final days and hours of the hard-fought vote on May 2, 2011.

“Having carefully examined all of the evidence, the commissioner found no reasonable grounds to believe that an offence under the (Elections) Act has been committed,” Cote’s 32-page report, posted Thursday, flatly asserts.

Pierre Poilievre, the minister of state for democratic reform, said the report proves the Conservatives ran “an honest and ethical campaign” in 2011. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Speeding Ferrari had child on board

Mounties say they’re appalled by the actions of a Ferrari driver from Langley, B.C., who used area roads as his personal race track.

Cpl. Robert McDonald says not only was the F430 sports car clocked at speeds 101 kilometres above the posted 80-kilometre limit, the 49-year-old was not travelling alone.

McDonald says a young child was in the seat beside him.

Both were OK but had to find another way home after the April 19 incident when the high-end race car was immediately impounded for seven days.

The man was also handed a $483 ticket for excessive speed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Garbage-to-energy plant ordered to stop burning medical waste

Aborted fetuses. Order comes after learning waste from B.C. may contain human tissue

An Oregon county commission has ordered an incinerator to stop accepting boxed medical waste to generate electricity after learning the waste it's been burning may include tissue from aborted fetuses from British Columbia.

Sam Brentano, chairman of the Marion County board of commissioners, said late Wednesday the board is taking immediate action to prohibit human tissue from future deliveries at the plant that has been turning waste into energy since 1987.

"We provide an important service to the people of this state and it would be a travesty if this program is jeopardized due to this finding," he said in a statement. "We thought our ordinance excluded this type of material at the waste-to-energy facility. We will take immediate action to ensure a process is developed to prohibit human tissue from future deliveries."

Kristy Anderson, a British Columbia Health Ministry spokeswoman, told The Associated Press that regional health authorities there have a contract with a company that sends biomedical waste, such as fetal tissue, cancerous tissue and amputated limbs, to Oregon, where it's incinerated in the waste-energy plant.

Small percentage

Marion County estimates that the facility processes 635 tonnes of in-county medical waste each year and about 1,100 tonnes from elsewhere, making it a small percentage of the total waste burned.

The B.C. Catholic, a Vancouver-based newspaper, identified the plant as Covanta Marion, based in Brooks, Ore. When contacted by The Associated Press on Wednesday, a Covanta Marion representative said he did not know if fetal tissue was included in shipments from Canada or elsewhere.

The facility is owned and operated by Covanta in a partnership with Marion County. According to its website, it processes about 500 tonnes per day of municipal solid waste, generating up to 13 megawatts of energy sold to Portland General Electric.

County spokeswoman Jolene Kelley said medical waste has been included in the program for some time, but the commissioners never had any indication that fetal tissue might be included. "We learned that today," she said.

Commissioners did not say why they believe medical waste shipped to the plant should be free of fetal tissue.

Yellow ribbons a symbol of hope for return of passengers

A female relative of a passenger aboard the sunken ferry Sewol is consoled by her husband as yellow ribbons are displayed as a sign of hope for the safe return of missing passengers at a port in Jindo, South Korea, Thursday. Divers made their way deeper into the submerged wreck of a ferry that sank more than a week ago as the death toll neared 160 and relatives of the more than 140 still missing pressed the government to finish the grim task of recovery soon. China plans to revoke news agency's licences

China's official news agency says authorities plan to revoke two crucial publication licences for web giant Sina.com because pornographic content was found on its sites.

Xinhua News Agency says the penalty might partially ban the web giant's operations.

Sina apologized Thursday evening for "the suspected problem" of pornographic content on its literature and video sites. It says in a statement on its website that it feels "sorry and ashamed" for lax monitoring and that it has moved quickly to rectify the problem.

Tiny Pacific nation sues world's nine nuclear powers

The tiny Pacific nation of the Marshall Islands is taking on the U.S. and the world's eight other nuclear-armed nations with a lawsuit demanding that they meet their obligations toward disarmament and accusing them of "flagrant violations" of international law.

The island group that was used for dozens of U.S. nuclear tests after the Second World War filed suit Thursday against each of the nine countries in the International Court of Justice in The Hague, Netherlands. It claims the countries are modernizing their arsenals instead of negotiating disarmament.

Smackdown. Tories ban restaurants from using foreign worker program

Amid a roar of criticism, Employment Minister Jason Kenney took action Thursday against the government's scandal-ridden temporary foreign worker program by banning restaurants from accessing it.

Kenney issued the surprise moratorium hours after the C.D. Howe Institute released a scathing study into the program that concluded it had spurred joblessness in B.C. and Alberta, two treasured Tory strongholds.

The smackdown to Canadian restaurants came despite Kenney's insistence in recent weeks that only a small number of companies were abusing the program and his repeated vows to deal with those bad actors harshly, including with fraud charges if necessary.

"I am announcing an immediate moratorium on the food services sector's access to the temporary foreign worker program," Kenney said in a statement.

He added his ministry will not process any new or pending applications for temporary foreign workers from restaurant operators, and any unfilled positions tied to previous approval will be suspended.

"This moratorium will remain in effect until the completion of the ongoing review of the temporary foreign worker program," he said.

Some stakeholders suggested Kenney's latest effort was feeble.

"I don't think he's gone far enough," said Stephen Hunt, the Western Canada director for United Steelworkers. "This is just another Band-aid that they seem to want to put on this program."

Quoted

"Canadians must always be first in line for available jobs."

Alexandra Fortier, Jason Kenney spokeswoman

Hundreds of Canadian companies and governmental departments employ temporary foreign workers, according to data compiled by Kenney's department. But there's been an especially dramatic increase in the number of hotels and restaurants accessing the program under the Conservatives.

Fast-food giant McDonald's has announced it is freezing its participation in the program pending a third-party audit after finding itself in hot water for hiring temporary foreign workers in B.C.

The program — originally designed to address shortages of skilled workers, not to recruit menial labour — has ballooned from about 100,000 people in 2002 to as many as 338,000 now working across the country, according to the C.D. Howe report.

The institute, a non-partisan public policy think-tank, said changes to the program enacted between 2002 and 2013 made it much easier for employers to hire temporary foreign workers. Alberta and B.C. were particular benefactors. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vatican calling. Pope's phone call to divorcee leads to questions regarding church rules

What Pope Francis may tell Catholics in private telephone conversations doesn't reflect church policy, the Vatican's spokesman said Thursday.

An unusual statement from The Rev. Federico Lombardi came after days of speculation that the pope wants to change Roman Catholic Church rules barring communion for faithful people who remarry after getting divorced.

The question arose after Francis reportedly called an Argentine woman who had written to him for guidance, saying her parish priest had denied her access to the sacraments because her spouse's previous marriage had not been annulled.

The woman's husband, Julio Sabetta, said Francis told his wife that she was free of sin and should take communion anyway.

Sabetta said he took the call from Argentina's former archbishop, Jorge Mario Bergoglio, on Monday afternoon at their home in San Lorenzo, in the Argentine province of Santa Fe.

Sabetta said his wife, Jacqui Lisbona, then took the call and spoke directly with the pope.

Word spread after Sabetta posted on Facebook that the pope had called. Then came news stories speculating that Francis will do away with the ban on divorcees — or even their spouses — accepting the wine and bread that represents the blood and body of Christ, and full membership in the church.

But Lombardi's statement — issued in Italian, English and Spanish — cautioned that "consequences related to the teaching of the Church are not to be inferred" from the pope's private conversations.

First images of newly found ship wreckage released

Sank in 1888. The remains of the boat are discovered more than 125 years later just inside the Golden Gate Bridge

The first images of the newly discovered wreckage of a steamship that sank in San Francisco Bay in 1888, killing 16 people, were released Wednesday by federal ocean scientists.

The wood and iron steamship City of Chester went down on Aug. 22, 1888, after it was struck in dense fog by a larger ship.

The collision came soon after family members bid their loved ones safe passage and the Chester departed with 106 passengers for Eureka, Calif., and Portland, Ore.

Moments later, it was split in two by the Oceanic, a ship more than twice its size, killing 13 passengers, including two children, and three crew members.

More than 125 years later, a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration team found the shipwreck in 217 feet of water just inside the Golden Gate Bridge while the scientists were charting shipping channels.

A display featuring the images and history of the shipwreck is planned at San Francisco's Chrissy Field, which looks out over the spot where the Chester sank, just in front of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Laura Pagano, a member of the NOAA team, said she became emotional while learning they had found the wreckage.

"To be able to connect with maritime history from a wreck found ... more than 100 years ago was immensely fulfilling." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Small popcorn-machine fire evacuates theatre

A small fire that started in a popcorn machine caused the evacuation of a Miami Beach movie theatre.

Officials say the smoke alarm sounded about 7:25 p.m. Wednesday inside the Regal South Beach theatre.

Miami Beach firefighters quickly extinguished the fire.

Miami television station WSVN showed moviegoers covering their faces as they left the smoky theatre. Employees wore masks as they helped customers get out of the building. One employee was checked by rescue crews but is expected to be OK.

The theatre was expected to reopen Thursday after crews clean up the concession stand. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cat reunited with owner after five years

A cat that went missing five years ago has been reunited with its owner in Indiana thanks to an implanted microchip.

Local news report the 10-year-old cat named Charlie showed up at Fort Wayne Animal Care and Control on Monday. Workers there scanned the cat and discovered Charlie had a microchip that identified Virginia Fryback of Fort Wayne as his owner.

Fryback says Charlie disappeared from her home five years ago and she thought she'd never see him again. She thanks the veterinarian who convinced her to get a microchip when Charlie was a kitten. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Garment workers in Bangladesh skeptical of regulation changes

Anniversary of disaster. The owner of the Rana Plaza, whose collapse killed over 1,000, is now behind bars

Relatives of victims mourn on the anniversary of last year's garment factory collapse in Savar, near Dhaka, Bangladesh on April 24. A.M. AHAD/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One year after the Rana Plaza garment factory collapsed in a pile of concrete slabs, Bangladeshi seamstress Shefali says she would rather starve than return to factory work.

Like many survivors of the worst disaster the garment industry has ever seen, 18-year-old Shefali, who goes by one name, says she suffers from depression and has flashbacks of the catastrophe that killed more than 1,100 people. She was injured in the collapse that happened a year ago Thursday and has lingering back pain.

"We die, we suffer, nobody takes care of us," Shefali said.

There have been some significant developments. The owner of the illegally constructed Rana Plaza building is behind bars, pending an investigation. The owners of the five factories operating inside the building also have been detained. Authorities also say they aim to ensure no new factories are built without following safety regulations.

However, many garment workers are skeptical that there will be any lasting change. Some of the Rana Plaza workers have left the garment industry. Others returned to a job many see as a way out of poverty.

When the Rana Plaza collapsed on April 24, 2013, thousands were toiling inside. The final death toll was 1,135 people, and thousands were rescued. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Subcontracting

Working in the industry

Bangladesh has one of the lowest minimum wages in the world — about $66 a month — yet makes goods for the world's leading retailers.

The structure of the garment industry is also viewed as problematic.

A study by New York University's Stern School of Business says an "essential feature" of the sector involves factories subcontracting work to workshops with worse conditions.

Sarah Labowitz, co-author of the report, said that these subcontracting factories cause concerns about workers' rights and safety. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ukraine. Putin responds to operation to drive out Pro-Russian insurgents

A Ukrainian soldier sits on his armoured vehicle at a checkpoint near the village of Artemiovska on April 24. MANU BRABO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russia announced new military exercises Thursday involving ground and air forces near its border with Ukraine, in response to a Ukrainian operation to drive pro-Russia insurgents out of buildings in the country's tumultuous east.

Russian President Vladimir Putin responded to the Ukrainian move, which killed at least two people, by denouncing it as a "punitive operation."

"If the Kyiv government is using the army against its own people, this is clearly a grave crime," Putin said.

His statement and the announcement of new military manoeuvres by Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu sharpened anxiety over the prospect of a Russian incursion into Ukraine.

The Russian exercises were denounced by U.S. Defence Secretary Chuck Hagel. If such activities escalate, it will be more difficult to find a diplomatic solution in Ukraine, Hagel said.

U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon warned that the crisis could "spin out of control." Tensions between Moscow and Kyiv have been high since the ousting of Russia-friendly president Viktor Yanukovych in February.

Russia contends the new government consists of nationalists who aim to suppress the large Russian-speaking population in Ukraine's east. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Meanwhile in Russia

Putin's main critic fined for slander

A Moscow judge on Tuesday left open the possibility of jailing President Vladimir Putin's main critic for years, a sign of Putin's increasingly hard-line rule against opponents.

Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was fined $8,400 on Tuesday for slandering a lawmaker. His second trial starts Thursday, and prosecutors are expected to ask for jail pending a trial. If there's a guilty verdict at that trial, he could get a prison term.

Navalny was nearly jailed last summer, when he was running a high-profile mayoral campaign in Moscow, but the Kremlin figured then he would be more useful if allowed to run. Putin has portrayed his critics as "national traitors." Russians opposing his actions in Ukraine have been compared to the Bolsheviks, who used Russia's defeat in World War I to carry out their revolution in 1917.

In July, Navalny was found guilty and sentenced to five years in prison in a criminal probe. After protests, prosecutors petitioned to suspend his sentence. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No more lazy dog-day afternoons for Fido?

Is your pooch getting a pooch? A new activity tracker for dogs can help pet parents know if their precious pups aren't getting enough exercise

Bad news for lazy dogs: A new device, called Whistle, lets pet owners track how much exercise — or sleep — their four-legged friends are getting.

Whistle is similar to popular activity trackers designed for humans. It wraps around a dog's collar and syncs with a smartphone app, collecting data on how much activity and rest the pet had.

We tried it out on a dog who would much rather sleep under the couch than chase a ball. It's no surprise to find out that the pup wasn't getting at least 30 minutes of movement a day.

Whistle pushes owners to take their dogs out on more walks for longer periods.

At $129 US, it is as pricey as some of the latest human fitness trackers from the likes of Fitbit and Jawbone.

One major difference: Whistle syncs data to its app through Wi-Fi, as well as Bluetooth. That lets you check up on your dogs without being near them, so you can track how much exercise your dog is getting when left with dog walkers, a doggy day care or family and friends.

Saskatchewan company.
Potash Corp. earned $340M in first quarter

Potash Corp. of Saskatchewan Inc. earned $340 million US in the first quarter, down from the same time last year, but better than it expected at the beginning of 2014, the fertilizer producer said Thursday.

The company said potash prices trended higher in key markets as the quarter progressed, but a sharp decline during the second half of 2013 weighed on the results.

As a result, the first-quarter average potash price of $250 per tonne was well below the $363 per tonne of the same period last year.

The company says North American demand for potash was robust as fertilizer distributors worked to position product ahead of spring planting.

A cooldown in the heated tiff over Sriracha factory

A cooling-off period has been called in the fight between the makers of Sriracha hot sauce and the Southern California city that says its air is too spicy to bear.

The Irwindale City Council delayed a decision for two weeks Wednesday night on declaring the Sriracha plant a public nuisance.

MIDDLE CLASS SOARS, AIRLINE TUMBLES

THE METRO LIST
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

It's time for The List, Metro's unerring guide to what's hot this week.

1 The Canadian middle class. Really? Yep, it's all the buzz around Timmy Hos. No less an authority than The New York Times says Canada's middle class has passed the U.S. as having the highest after-tax middle-class incomes in the world. Booyah! Too bad for Justin Trudeau, who has based his entire platform on the collapse of the middle class. Right idea, wrong country, maybe.

2 Twit trending on Twitter. Remember the name Cliven Bundy, as it is now synonymous with the last gasp of unreconstructed racism in America. This bad old boy — and until recently a Tea Party hero — has been caught on camera airing his views on "the Negro." "They abort their young children; they put young men in jail, because they never learned how to pick cotton." Oh, and "I've often wondered, are they better off as slaves ..." Rancher Bundy was a right-wing poster boy for defying the U.S. government over grazing rights, but those howls are coming from former supporters breaking their ankles after leaping off the bandwagon.

3 Tyler Oakley, born again. With more than 137 million views and 4 million subscribers, LGBT advocate Tyler Oakley is a giant of the Internet. But in the words of his mom Jackie, he was once seven pounds and 12 ounces ... exactly 24 years ago to be precise. In his latest video, Tyler and his mom resurrect a VHS tape of his birth and watch the blessed event together. It's the first time Tyler's seen it and his reactions ("I look like a baby zombie gremlin!") are more fun than the actual event.

4 Air Canada has a bad, bad week. Not only were Air Canada baggage handlers caught casually tossing bags six or seven metres from the door of a plane into a bin below, a new survey shows that Air Canada has the second rudest flight attendants of any airline in North America, just behind Spite, er, Spirit. The best were Southwest and Alaska. In the interest of fairness, Air Canada was voted the best international airline in North America in 2011, but really, what has it done for us lately?

5 Jodi Foster has a good week. She marries Alexandra Hedison, photographer, actor (The L Word) and Ellen DeGeneres's ex-girlfriend. Hollywood. Such a small town.

6 Triumph of the underdog. Snatching victory from the jaws of defeat, the Montreal Canadiens may be the only Canadian team to make the NHL playoffs, but after sweeping the Tampa Bay Lightning in the first round, they may be more than enough to keep Canadian hearts glowing. At the same time, American Meb Keflezighi wins the Boston marathon, the first American man to do so since 1983. Meb was born in Eritrea, land of marathoners, but he's been in the U.S. since 1987, so during a year when Americans desperately wanted their legendary race back on an, um, secure footing, his victory counts as one for Team USA.

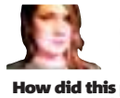
Metalheads have soft spot for cats

It's hard to imagine metal musicians being especially affectionate. But beneath the darkness is a softer side as photographer Alexandra Crockett reveals in her book Metal Cats. Her images capture hard-core metalheads as they pose with their felines. METRO

Q and A

Just a silly idea



ALEXANDRA CROCKETT
Photographer, 30, based in Oakland, Calif.

How did this photo series come about?
I texted about 30 of my metalhead male friends who I knew had cats. I said, 'Hey, if I did this kind of, like, silly weird idea, what would you think about that?' And they were all like, 'Oh my God, I really want to!' The project took me four years as I travelled along the West Coast.

If there's one thing that illicit leaps from Whistler gondolas and some of America's tallest buildings teach you, it's that it's hard to keep a good BASE jumper down. But the idea of sneaking to the peak of Dubai's Burj Khalifa, the world's tallest building, is likely a leap too far.

So what's the plan for hopefuls wanting to drop from the uppermost height of human construction? There's not really much you can do but bide your time and keep your fingers crossed for an invite. That seemed to work out just fine for champion jumpers Vince Reffet and Fred Fugen. (Via Skydive Dubai)

What women don't want

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Leslie Mann, Cameron Diaz and Kate Upton are three women wronged in The Other Woman, which opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Married man Mark King (Game of Thrones's Nikolaj Coster-Waldau) tries to push infidelity to Tiger Woodsian heights by cheating on his wife (Leslie Mann) with multiple mistresses, including Carly and Amber (Cameron Diaz and Kate Upton). "We got played by the same guy," says Carly. The three women form an unlikely friendship, drowning their sorrows in a sea of tequila shots before hatching a plan to humiliate and financially ruin the three timer.

The Other Woman.
Revenge comedy falls to tired stereotypes on how women view men, but at least the outfits are chic

Richard: Mark, with The Notebook, director Nick Cassavetes made one of the most romantic movies of recent years. With The Other Woman, his pendulum has swung in the opposite direction. This is an anti-romance flick about sex, lies and adultery but it's ripe with laughs and some fun performances. Mann goes all in as a Lucille Ball-on-the-verge-of-a-nervous-breakdown type, Diaz has great comic timing, and even Kate Upton, who will never be accused of giving Meryl Streep a run for her money, is charming and funny. It's not Bridemaids funny, but I laughed out loud quite a few times. You?

Mark: Is it possible to like a movie but hate its sexual politics? Because that's how I felt about it. I laughed, especially when Leslie Mann was onscreen. This movie is certainly her personal best. She's amazingly loose and funny, especially in the first third of the film. But the revenge plot against the cheating husband left me feeling queasy. He's set up as such a cardboard lothario that he made the Kate Upton character look deep. There's a positive male role model in the film, Mann's brother, but he's so anodyne and threatless that I couldn't take him seriously as a character. The movie is interesting as a series of Rorschach tests about how women must view men — either cads or eunuchs — but I had to banish these thoughts or I couldn't enjoy the comedy.

RC: I see what you're saying, and I suppose the film is a bit mean-spirited and not terribly subtle in its examination of the dynamics between men and women, but it does get the girl power stuff right, and I think that's more the point of the film. This isn't a movie about the men; they are simply the McGuffins that forward the plot. This is a movie about female bonding rather than female blaming.

MB: Anyway, at least it's a good-looking movie, and the women's outfits are chic. Don Johnson is given a part that's more than a cameo, but less than a role. I think he could have been onscreen more with a beefed-up part. But Nicki Minaj, as Diaz' assistant, steals every scene she's in. I thought she was a hoot. Richard, did the soundtrack bother you? Such obvious choices, like New York, New York when the husband enters the city, or the Mission: Impossible theme when the three women tail the husband to find out what he's up to.

RC: Absolutely. The soundtrack is as subtle as Coster-Waldau's cheesy pick-up lines. Five minutes in, I was willing to bet Girls Just Wanna Have Fun would play … and I would have won that bet.

MB: And I bet the women will cheer and the men will groan at this flick.

The sequel to The Amazing Spider-Man is gaining a lot of buzz for its bounty of baddies, and with more than 50 years of pulp-fiction history, the comic-book character certainly has many to choose from. At Metro, we only feel it's our responsibility to inform the public of the upcoming blockbuster's nefarious criminals.

The villains of Spider-Man

Green Goblin

Alias: The Goblin, Harry Osborn

Played by: Dane DeHaan

The folklore: The genetically ill heir to unethical Oscorp Industries, Harry Osborn seeks vengeance on Spidey after the webslinger refuses a potentially life-altering blood transfusion. In the Marvel universe, after taking a formula, Osborn gets enhanced strength and equips himself with a "goblin glider," exploding pumpkin bombs and, consequently, a pretty knockout Halloween costume.

First comic book appearance: 1965 (Amazing Spider-Man #31)

Electro

Alias: Maxwell Dillon

Played by: Jamie Foxx

The Folklore: An electrical engineer that accidentally gains mutagenic powers that enables him to capacitate electricity (and then shoot it from his fingertips, naturally), Electro turns from a shy, introverted Spider-Man fan to power-hungry vengeance seeker who unites with the Green Goblin in order to gain fame.

First comic book appearance: 1964 (Amazing Spider-Man #9)

The Rhino

Alias: "Hornhead", Aleksei Sytsevich

Played by: Paul Giamatti

The Folklore: The Rhino may historically be a Russian thug that participated in an experiment that bonded his skin to be hard as nails but in this film, he teams up with Goblin and gets outfitted with a heavily-armoured suit that enables him to become a raging, machine gun-toting maniac of destruction.

First comic book appearance: 1966 (Amazing Spider-Man #41)

Nothing but bad guys

Producer Avi Arad has announced The Amazing Spider-Man franchise will spin off a movie featuring Spidey's villains called The Sinister Six. Here's a peek at who may (or may not) make up the other three mischief-makers:

Vulture – An electromagnetic tailored body harness allows this legendary Spider-Man crook great strength and the ability to fly despite his deceptively mature age. Suggested casting: Larry David

Kraven the Hunter – A maniacal Russian hunter with superhuman strength, Kraven wants to defeat Spider-Man to prove he's the greatest gamesman in the world. Suggested casting: Phil Robertson from Duck Dynasty

Mysterio – According to folklore, this creepy illusionist isn't much more than a frustrated failed magician with some sort of goldfish bowl over his head. Suggested casting: Music performer deadmau5

Brick Mansions

Director. Camille Delamarre

Stars. Paul Walker, David Belle

In a dystopian Detroit, abandoned brick mansions left from better times now house only the most dangerous criminals. Unable to control the crime, the police constructed a colossal containment wall around this area to protect the rest of the city. For undercover cop Damien Collier (Paul Walker) every day is a battle against corruption. For Lino (David Belle), every day is a fight to live an honest life.

Crack open the maple syrup and settle in to some Can-con

National Canadian Film Day. Homegrown cinema lovers have plenty to choose from on April 29

scene@metronews.ca

Bon Cop, Bad Cop is one of the films on offer on April 29. CONTRIBUTED

"For the past nine years, Reel Canada has been introducing young people and new Canadians to great Canadian films and the response has been overwhelmingly positive," says Jack Blum, executive director of Reel Canada.

This year on Tuesday, April 29, the Can-con boosters are kicking their outreach up a notch with the establishment of National Canadian Film Day.

"We thought it would be great for one day a year to extend that invitation to all Canadians," Blum says. "We just believe that if we can overcome the 'awareness' barrier created by the huge promotional budgets Hollywood commands for its product, that people will embrace our fantastic legacy of great cinema."

To help celebrate the inaugural National Canadian Film Day, Cineplex has donated screens to show a variety of homegrown films, including the festival hit C.R.A.Z.Y. and Paul Gross's Passchendaele. The Reel Canada website boasts that great Canadian films will be "available in more communities on a single day than ever before in our nation's history."

"There are screenings happening all over the country," says Blum, "literally in every province and territory as well as online and on TV. Of course, if you're in Toronto, the place to be is the Royal on College, where Bruce McDonald and Don McKellar will be presenting Highway 61 and Last Night."

Blum waves the flag when discussing the importance of exposure to Canadian films. "Canadian movies reflect Canadian experience. Period. When people see themselves and their world depicted on screen it gives them a stronger sense of where they live and what community or communities they belong to."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Richard Gere

Gere dates Padma Lakshmi

While Richard Gere is still in the process of divorcing Carey Lowell, his wife of 11 years, the Pretty Woman star has reportedly started dating Top Chef host Padma Lakshmi, according to Star magazine. "They're just getting to know each other," a source says, adding that the romance "started very recently." Gere and Lakshmi started spending time together when he headed to New York to work on his current film. METRO WORLD NEWS

Oprah's vengeful ex-stepmother dishes on star

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Oprah's ex-stepmother, Barbara Winfrey, wants revenge. After she divorced Oprah's father Vernon, Oprah pushed Barbara out of the house where she lived with Vernon and which Oprah owned. Now Barbara is retaliating by dishing all in a Daily Mail interview. Here are the best bits:

1. She claims she has never seen Oprah and her long-term boyfriend, Stedman Graham, kiss, hold hands or seem romantic.

2. "If it's not more than friendship, they're giving every appearance that it is," she said about the close friendship of Oprah and Gayle King.

3. Oprah is obsessed with skin colour. "It's a real thing for her. It's one of the things she liked about Stedman. He has what we call 'high yellow' skin and soft hair … she liked that."

4. Oprah forces everyone to sign a confidentiality agreement. "Once you're in Oprah's world, she owns you," she noted.

5. There are rumours that Vernon is not Winfrey's biological father. Barbara claims he wanted to do the DNA test but Oprah refused. "She knows it would prove he IS her father. She can't quite believe that such a silly man could make such a magnificent creature," she said.

Is Clooney Wynning this feud? Star storms out of dinner with hotel developer

George Clooney didn't have the best time dining with hotel and casino developer Steve Wynn during a visit to Las Vegas recently. The actor reportedly stormed out of a dinner with Wynn and a few associates after an argument over the Affordable Care Act, though each party has their own version of events.

"When he's drinking, he considers himself a close, personal buddy of the president," Wynn tells the Las Vegas Review-Journal. "He got up and said, 'I don't have to listen to this f—ing stuff.' The only person who got excited at the table was George, and he ran off to another bar. Clooney's fun to be with when he's sober. If you have a chance to drink with him, you want to get there early, and don't stay late." Clooney, for his part, sent a statement via his publicist: "I said the president was my longtime friend, and then he said, 'Your friend is an a—hole,'" Clooney says."At that point I told Steve that he was an a—hole and I wasn't going to sit at his table while he was being such a jackass. And I walked out. There were obviously quite a few more adjectives and adverbs used by both of us." METRO WORLD NEWS

With so many unique grape varieties growing around the world, you could drink a wine made from a different one every day for the rest of your life and never come close to saying you tasted them all.

I recently tried a Turkish wine made from Öküzgözü: a piece of fruit native to Turkey's Elazığ province. I hadn't had it before and love that after decades of walking the wine beat, I'm still finding new-to-me juice.

Of course you don't have to go that far afield to try something other than merlot and chardonnay. There are plenty of mainstream countries producing wines from lesser known grapes.

Puglia, the heel of Italy's boot, has almost exclusive rights to Negroamaro — a dark, brooding berry that delivers well above its typically inexpensive price point.

The 2012 Mezzomondo Negroamaro IGT ($8.95 - $11.99) is majorly aromatic with dark berry fruit flavours and the grape's classic light bitter finish, which makes it a perfect partner for meaty tomato sauces and weekend barbecues.

Bacon and Egg Pie: Bake a different type of pastry tonight

THE FREE RANGE COOK
Annabel Langbein

1. Preheat oven to 200 C. Place a flat baking tray in the oven to heat — the pie will sit on this and the heat will help it to crisp.

2. Cut a piece of baking paper to fit a 40 x 30 cm baking dish or roasting pan. It should cover the base and reach about 3-4 cm up the sides. Remove the baking paper from the baking dish or roasting pan and lay it flat on your bench. Dust it with a little flour and lay 2 pastry sheets on top. Join the pastry sheets by pressing them together firmly with a small overlap. Roll out the pastry to cover the paper. Lift the paper with the pastry and lay it into the baking dish or roasting pan (it will reach 3-4 cm up the sides).

3. Sprinkle the bacon over the pastry. Top with the sliced potato and sprinkle with the herbs. Break 8 whole eggs over the top.

4. In a mixing bowl, lightly whisk the remaining 6 eggs with the milk, salt and pepper. Pour this evenly over the whole eggs.

5. Roll out the remaining sheet of pastry very thinly and cut it into narrow strips. Arrange the strips in a lattice pattern on top of the pie, trimming off any excess.

6. Place the prepared pie on top of the heated baking tray and bake for 12-15 minutes until the pastry is starting to puff and turn golden. Reduce the heat to 180 C and bake until the pastry is golden and cooked through on the base — about a further 35-40 minutes.

7. Serve warm or at room temperature with a salad and pickles or chutney. It will keep in a covered container in the fridge for 2-3 days.

Ingredients

- 3 sheets (450 g) ready-rolled savoury shortcrust pastry
- 250 g streaky bacon, cut into 2 cm pieces
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled, cooked and thinly sliced
- 3 tbsp soft herbs such as parsley, basil, chives or spring onion tops, chopped
- 14 eggs
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 tsp salt
- ground black pepper

This recipe serves six to eight people. ANNABEL LANGBEIN

A perfectly Roasted Pepper Pesto

This recipe makes two cups. ANNABEL LANGBEIN

1. Rinse the peppers and pat dry. Place them on a baking tray and roast at 240 C for about 15-20 minutes until the skin is blistered and blackened. Remove from the oven and cover with a tea towel or put in a plastic bag to sweat. This will make it much easier to remove the skins later. Set aside to cool for about 20 minutes.

2. While the peppers cool, heat the oil in a small pan and sizzle the garlic and paprika for a few seconds. This helps bring out their flavour. Place this mixture in a food processor or blender.

3. Remove the skins and seeds from the peppers, saving the juices if you can. Place the flesh and any reserved juices in the food processor or blender with the garlic and paprika mixture. Add the almonds and coriander. Season with salt and pepper and purée until smooth. Pesto will keep in a covered container in the fridge for a week.

NBA playoffs

Hawks taking flight over Pacers

Jeff Teague flung in a wild three-pointer after the officials appeared to miss him stepping out of bounds, and Kyle Korver finished off Indiana from beyond the arc to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 98-85 victory Thursday night and another lead in the series with the top-seeded Pacers.

Hardly playing like a No. 8 seed that finished 38-44 during the regular season, the Hawks took control in the third quarter and held off the Pacers to go up 2-1 in the best-of-seven series.

Game 4 is Saturday in Atlanta.

The Hawks were up 84-78 with the shot clock running down when Teague launched a running shot from the wing — after his foot seemed to clip the line. It counted, even after a video review.

Raptors in need of star from Game 2

NBA playoffs. Coach, teammates confident DeMar DeRozan can rise to the occasion

DeMar DeRozan makes a layup for the Raptors in their 100-95 win over the Nets on Tuesday at the Air Canada Centre. STEVE RUSSELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

After a wobbly playoff debut, Raptors star DeMar DeRozan returned to attack mode for Game 2 against the Brooklyn Nets.

The 24-year-old Toronto guard had just 14 points in Game 1, with eight of those coming from the free-throw line, in a 94-87 loss to visiting Brooklyn that saw DeRozan miss 10 of 13 shots.

On Tuesday, a different DeRozan took the court. As he approached the Nets basket, it was as if his brain was in overdrive as it diagrammed possible plays. The possibilities seemed endless: dish off to a teammate, drive to the basket, pull back and take a shot.

The Raptors will need more of the same Friday when the series switches to Brooklyn's Barclays Center for Game 3.

While Toronto preaches a team approach, the Raptors know good things happen when DeRozan is rolling.

"I was just trying to feed him," Toronto guard Greivis Vasquez said of Game 2. "I was just trying to get him the ball — it was just, 'Go, go. We need you to get confidence.'"

Mission accomplished.

DeRozan finished with 30 points, 17 of which came in the fourth quarter when he made four of five shots and nine of 11 free throws. He finished the game with five fouls, hanging his head at one point at the end of the bench while his teammates huddled during a timeout.

But he was on point when he returned to action in the 100-95 win.

DeRozan's fourth-quarter output was just two points off the club playoff record of 19, set in 2001 by Vince Carter against Philadelphia. Again and again, DeRozan answered the veteran Nets as they tried to claw their way back.

For coach Dwane Casey, DeRozan showed his maturity by taking the shots the defence was giving him rather than trying to force things.

"He's growing," said Casey. "He's still not a finished product. We've just seen the beginning of a guy becoming a star."

Diehard fans

Reppin' the T-Dot in B.K.

They not only rock the ACC, they make a presence on the road as well. Diehard fans have been spotted wearing Raptors jerseys wherever the team has played this season.

But come Friday, Raptors fans will face a new challenge — cheering on their team in Brooklyn in a playoff game. Some dedicated fans are making the trip to what's likely to be a hostile Barclays Center.

"We've just gotta represent our team," fan Burhan Ehsan said.

Orioles knock Blue Jays back down to .500

The Toronto Blue Jays wasted a quality start by Drew Hutchison and fell back to the .500 mark by dropping an 11-4 decision to the Baltimore Orioles on Thursday night at Rogers Centre.

Hutchison worked six solid innings and left the game with a 3-2 lead.

The Orioles attacked the Toronto bullpen by scoring five runs in the seventh and adding four more in the eighth to turn the game into a rout.

Jonathan Schoop homered and David Lough had three of the Orioles' 14 hits. Bud Norris (1-2) allowed five hits, three earned runs and a walk over six innings as Baltimore (11-10) took the rubber game of the three-game series.

Nelson Cruz scored twice and drove in two runs while Chris Davis and Adam Jones had three RBIs apiece.

Dioner Navarro and Colby Rasmus homered for the Blue Jays (11-11), who had seven hits on the night.

Navarro put the Blue Jays on the board in the bottom of the second inning with a solo shot for his first homer of the season.

Juan Francisco followed with a single and scored when Rasmus belted a two-run blast.

Norris settled down after his rough inning and faced the minimum 11 batters until hitting Edwin Encarnacion with a pitch in the sixth inning.

Jose Bautista had an RBI single in the eighth inning and has now reached base in all 22 games this season.

It all comes down to goaltending

Fleury takes the heat.
Penguins' goalie under fire, even with Crosby and Malkin not scoring

One of the great things about the world we live in is the instant access to information we neither need nor fully understand.

For instance, when Marc-Andre Fleury pulled one of the great choke jobs — even for him — in NHL first-round playoff history on Wednesday, Twitter's #Fleury hashtag trended to the top and was still going strong on Thursday. Weird thing, though — it was going strong in Russian.

It's clear the Penguins have a lot of Russian fans. Fleury does not.

And that's the world Fleury lives in. The team's great when it's winning. The goalie's horrible when it's losing.

The Penguins are tied 2-2 with the Columbus Blue Jackets. They surrendered a 3-0 lead and in the last minute of the game, Fleury wandered behind his net, completely missed the puck and gave Columbus a chance to tie it. It was like all saves he'd made didn't happen.

Then, the Jackets won in overtime on a wrist shot from 50 feet away that is stopped by nine out of 10 road hockey goalies. Then, truly, all the saves he'd made didn't matter.

The Penguins' problems go deeper than Fleury — neither Sidney Crosby nor Evgeni Malkin have scored — but in the playoffs, it all comes down to goaltending. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Just for comparison

Fleury versus Price

Now compare the brain-cramped Fleury to the savvy Carey Price.

Did Montreal ice the puck and do his linemates need a rest? Price has a problem with his equipment. Is there a player in his crease? Price makes sure to "get hit" by him, just in case. A goal is called back. Is there a stoppage in play so Price can skate to the bench? Why not trip an unsuspecting Tampa player or two en route, to give the Bell Centre crowd something to laugh at?

Iginla helps Bruins pin Red Wings against ropes

Jarome Iginla and the Bruins are shipping up to Boston with a chance to eliminate the Detroit Red Wings.

Iginla scored the overtime winner on multiple deflections to give the Bruins a 3-2 victory over the Red Wings in Game 4 Thursday night at Joe Louis Arena. Boston leads the series three games to one and can advance to face the Montreal Canadiens with a victory in Game 5 Saturday back at home.

Dougie Hamilton took the original shot that was tipped by Iginla and then Red Wings defenceman Danny Dekeyser on the way into the net at 13:32 of overtime.

Torey Krug and Milan Lucic also scored for Boston, which became the ninth team in these Stanley Cup playoffs to erase a two-goal lead. Goaltender Tuukka Rask made 35 saves to keep the Bruins in it.

New fathers Niklas Kronwall and Pavel Datsyuk scored for the Red Wings. Kronwall's wife gave birth to a baby boy earlier in the day, and Datsyuk's gave birth to a baby girl Wednesday.

Jonas Gustavsson was Detroit's unexpected, last-minute starter in goal in place of the flu-ridden Jimmy Howard. In his NHL playoff debut, Gustavsson stopped 37 of the 40 shots he faced.

The Red Wings came out flying in their second home game of the playoffs, feeding off a sellout crowd that was fired up about the return of captain Henrik Zetterberg. Fans cheered the captain when he stepped onto the ice for warm-ups, took his first shift and just about any time he touched the puck.

Early on, Detroit had it a lot and was all over the Presidents' Trophy-winners. Rask had to be good in the game's first few minutes as he was tested often. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Try not to be too serious about life today. There's a time to ponder the big questions but this isn't it. The planets urge you to be practical and to focus on what's in front of you.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
All things may be possible for you now but the planets warn you should be tying up loose ends rather than starting anything new. Are you prepared for what is to come? Get your act together.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
You will find it easy to get your way. Others will take it for granted that you are the boss and do as you say. If you use charm rather than coercion you will find that everyone will do almost anything for you.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
No matter how much others might question your beliefs, if you are happy with them there is no reason to change. Yes, some of your ideas may seem irrational, but so what?

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Make sure you get value for money today because if you don't take care of your cash, others will get rich at your expense. You may not care now how much things are costing you but you will when you can no longer afford them.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
If you make an effort to reach out to those you love, this will be an enjoyable day. Some may be of the opinion that you lack the human touch but obviously they don't know you.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
No matter how determined you are to make an impression on people in positions of power you must not run yourself into the ground.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You won't be shy about letting those you care for know how much they mean to you. Creatively, too, this should be a good day for you, so let your artistic side come to the fore.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
If you have been too busy to spend much quality time with loved ones recently, you will get the chance to make up for it over the next few days. You've had your fun, now you want those you have feelings for to have fun as well.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You want to go out and have a good time but you also want to express your feelings openly and honestly. Yes, you can do both. This is the perfect day to use those three magic words: "I love you". Mean them.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You are on a winning streak at the moment and the planets indicate it will continue into the weekend. It doesn't have to be just about money — you will be lucky in love as well.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You will feel good about yourself today, thanks to the influence of Venus, planet of harmony, in your sign. Try to avoid work that may be strenuous because it's unlikely that your heart will be in it.
